The awards, totaling $2,500.00, will be presented to five teachers to support a variety of classroom activities from

WHY ANNUITIES LOOK GOOD

Annuities offer three strong advantages as retirement savings: taxes are deferred on income; there are no limits on how much you put in; and distribution can be delayed. Smart savers start with the plans that use pre-tax dollars, like a 401(k), or are tax-deductible, like an IRA or Keogh, then build with annuities.

Variable annuities are especially favored today. These include some insurance to guarantee their payouts and a portfolio that can include stocks, bonds or other investments managed professionally. What's "variable?" Annuity holders can switch portfolios, thus varying the unit's risk and return. At payout, only the growth portion is taxed, not return on principal. Though IRA and other retirement withdrawals must start at 70 1/2, annuities can stay put until 85.

Investigate before investing. Compare returns with appropriate indexes, and watch out for hidden charges and surrender fees. There is a penalty for withdrawals before the age of 59 1/2.

Is your retirement well-funded? Talk it over with the tax and finance people at

UNHAPPY WITH YOUR CD INTEREST RATE!

Interest rates on CD's and Money Market Accounts have come down substantially this past year.

There ARE some good alternatives to bank CD's that maybe you should explore; such as double Tax Free Bond Funds, International Money Market Accounts, and other quality bond and utility funds that pay substantially more.

Before you automatically renew your present CD, why not give me a call, there is no obligation, and I do not charge fees to discuss the various options available to you.

Ask your child if smoking is bad

by Jeff Nazzaro

Pretty soon I wanted to smoke and asked the widow to let me. But she wouldn't. She said it was a mean practice and wasn't clean, and I must try not to do it any more. That is just the way with some people. They get down on a thing when they don't know nothing about it.

- from Mark Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn.

There it is. The slave-holding, aristocratic, hypocritical Widow Douglas forcing the poor, unfortunate, vagabond, rough-and-tumble rapsallion Huckleberry Finn not to smoke because it is "mean" and "unclean."

Unless you've been vacationing at Jurassic Park the last month-or-so, you've undoubtedly seen or heard a very reasonable facsimile of the Widow Douglas' chastisement of Huck in the form of a $14 million smoker-funded, American Cancer Society solicited, Massachusetts Board of Public Health sponsored TV and radio ad campaign telling us what we already know. Smoking is bad. Really? The next thing they'll be telling us is that the earth is round. And then what? The moon isn't made of cheese?

It doesn't take a surgeon, a general, or any combination thereof to figure out that smoking is bad for your health and that it will probably kill you in time. Anyone who has ever said otherwise has been living (and dying) in denial. The tobacco industry, like most operations trying to sell a product, tells some little-white advertising lies. It goes with the territory, as they say.

The American Cancer Society, on the other hand, would have you believe that people who don't smoke, don't die. Well, they do die, but only because of evil smokers who kill them with their dirty habit. Statistics on the killing effect of second-hand smoke are unproven and exaggerated. I challenge anyone to provide conclusive, or even substantial proof that people smoking in a massive shopping mall kill non-smokers. In the case of a woman who dies of lung cancer after being married to a smoker for forty years, for example, the facts that she may have sprayed her hair with chemicals everyday, cleaned her oven with chemicals once-a-month, mopped her floor with chemicals once-a-week, let the exterminator in once-a-year and was ambushed at the mall with 3.5 ounce bottles of perfume 79 times, are all ignored.

Do I support smoking? No. In fact, I was embarrassed this summer when, on my usual stop at the Glen Road Playground in Wilmington, I forgot to take my cigarettes out of my shirt pocket. One of the children there noticed. Several told me I should quit, because it was bad for me. "That's good," I said. "Remember that, don't ever start, it's a terrible habit and you won't be missing a thing by never even trying it." Unfortunately, some of those children will smoke one day.

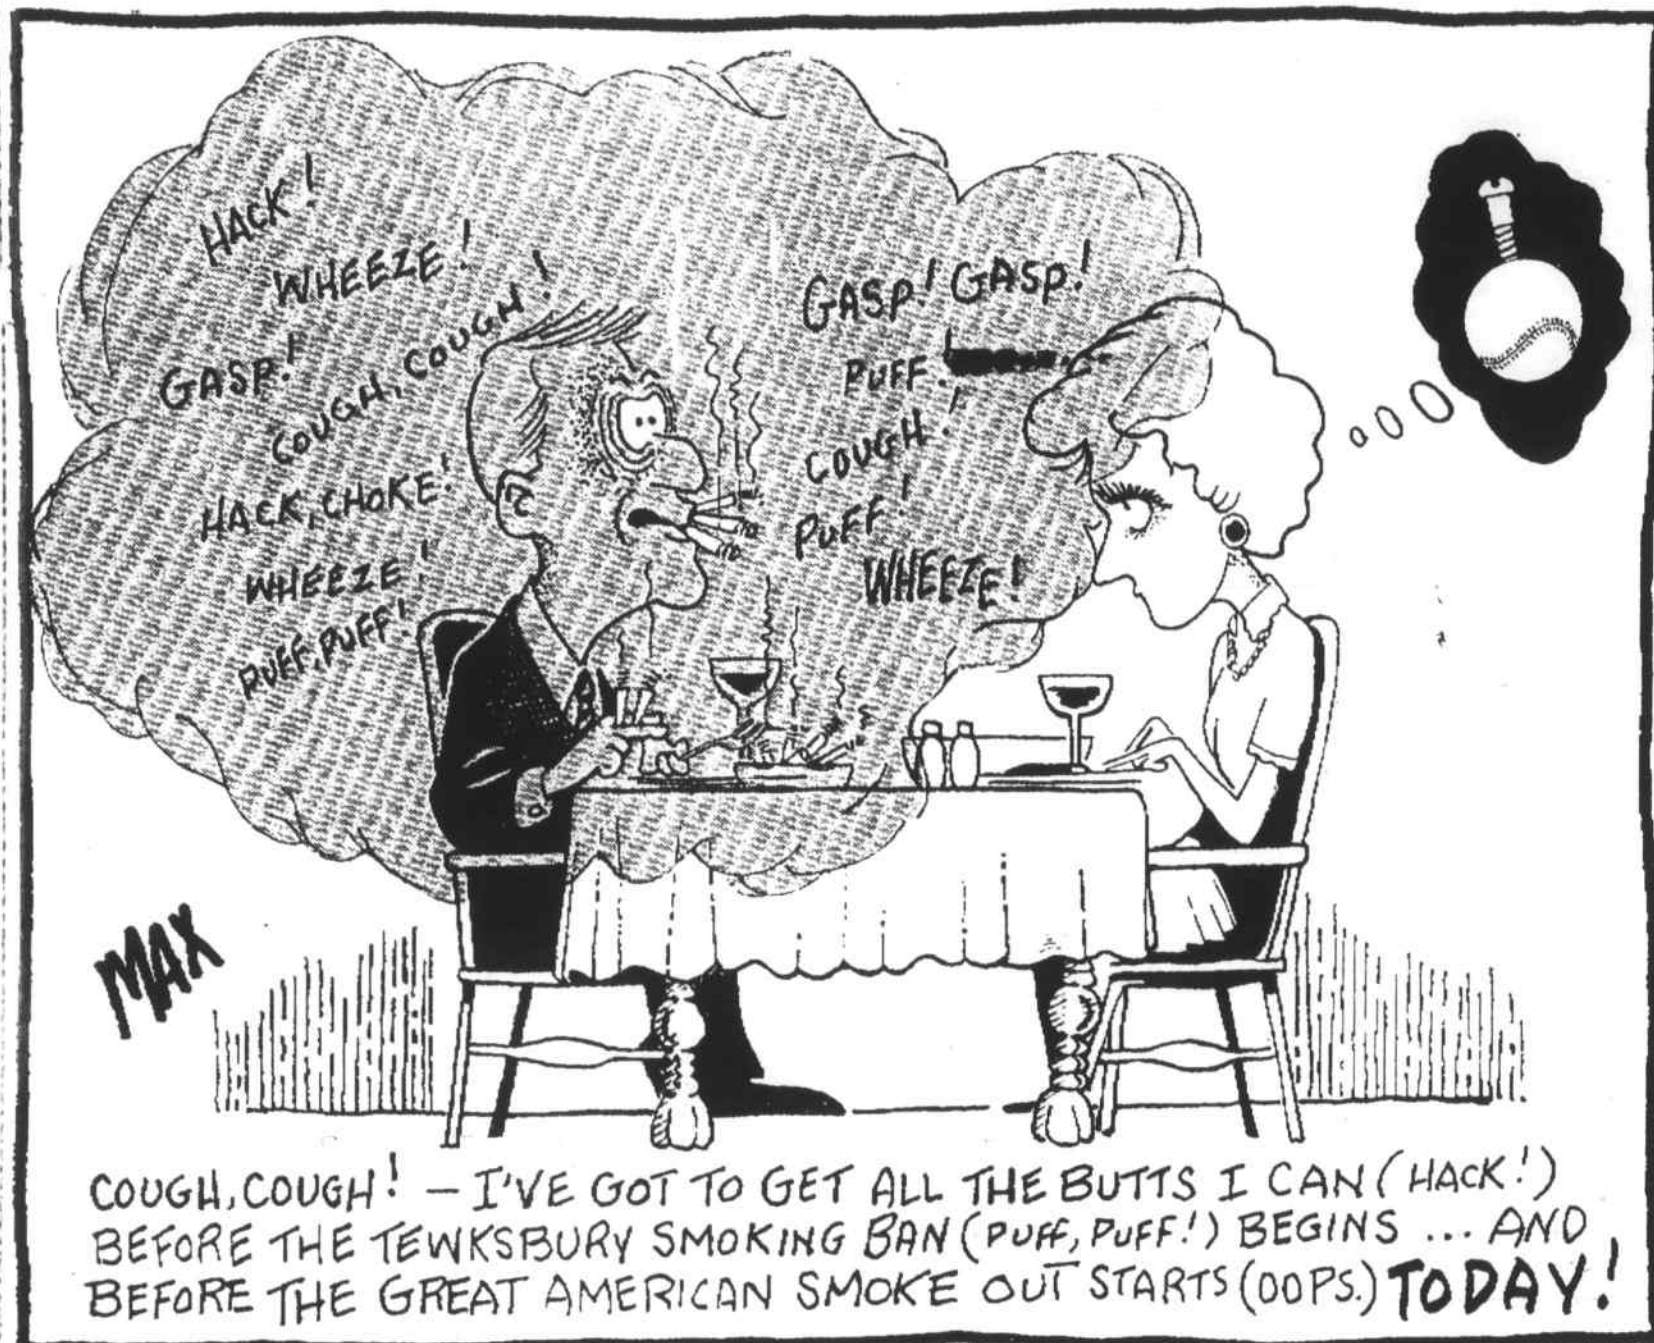

Try this: go to the nearest child you see and ask her or him whether or not they know smoking is bad. Then ask the same kids if they will ever smoke. I would be shocked if any child expressed the belief that smoking isn't bad for one's health, and equally shocked if any of them said they were planning on taking up smoking. Children hate cigarettes. Children of smokers particularly hate smoking, because they have to breathe in the odorous smoke on long car trips and often over the dinner table. Again, unfortunately, some of these children will smoke.

But let's spend $14 million dollars to tell them not to, anyway. And while we're at it, let's take money that could be spent on things like books and computers and hire people to tell children smoking is bad. With the state that our public schools are in, it seems to me we should concentrate on educating our children on things they don't yet know are bad for them.

Still, there's $90,000 going to Tewksbury (with Billerica) for the purpose of hiring, among other things, a "part-time enforcer." This plan will work. I mean, nobody under-21 ever gets their hands on alcohol.

It all started with an unfair tax slapped on people who can't afford it, because, despite their better judgement, they got hooked on a powerfully addictive drug, nicotine. But it's okay, because smoking is mean and unclean and kills innocent people. Alcohol and gambling are far more destructive to human lives and families, yet sales of alcohol and lottery tickets are conducted by the state itself because they bring great windfalls to the treasury. So to does a tobacco tax. Cigarette smoking, alcohol consumption and gambling are pushed by the very fabric of our society on the working class and the poor only to have that society's government turn around and punish the same for simply trying to cope with the day-to-day hassles of life.

Smoking is bad. So too are unfair taxes aimed at specific groups. Better pack a lot of grilled moon-cheese sandwiches. It's a long way to the end of the earth.

I'm glad to see he's (McCoy) back

Dear Larz:

I was watching a recent selectmen's meeting on TV. Their topic was the water and sewer operation.

I was glad to see Selectman Michael McCoy stand up and point out the wrong doing that was going on. Michael McCoy has said the real losers on this are the taxpayers and the ratepayers. Michael McCoy was the only selectman strong on this and I'm glad to see he is back, because at least we will have someone who cares, and will say it the way it is, and will represent the taxpayers.

Banning weapons will not solve criminal problems

Dear Larz:

Despite overwhelming evidence from Federal, state and local law enforcement agencies, stating that criminals rarely use so-called "assault weapons" in violent crimes, Governor Weld and State Sen. Barrett have filed legislation that would ban the sale of or severely restrict the use of these semi-automatic firearms.

According to FBI data, rifles of any description are used in three percent of homicides nationwide and in 2.8 percent of homicides in Massachusetts. So-called "assault weapons" are used in less than one percent of homicides nationwide, and in 0.5 percent of homicides in Massachusetts (state and local police reports). By comparison, knives are used in 15 percent of homicides nationwide, and 23 percent in Massachusetts (FBI uniform crime reports).

In Washington, DC, which has the highest murder rate in the United States (1,400 homicides, 1990-92) police report that not one involved a rifle of any kind.

Semiautomatic firearms were introduced more than 100 years ago and are popular in a full range of applications - hunting, target shooting, collecting and self defense, to name a few. All semi-autos function in the same manner. They use the same ammunition as other firearms and are no more or less powerful than other firearms.

Today, Americans own about 30 million semi-automatic rifles, pistols and shotguns - about 15 percent of all U.S. firearms, they are honest, decent citizens from all walks of life who use them safely and responsibly and believe in the right to choose for themselves what type of firearm to own.

Banning these weapons will not solve the current criminal problems. Enforcing existing laws, reforming the criminal justice system, expanding the prison system and eliminating plea bargaining might be.

Sincerely,
John A. Maddaleni

Time and money should be spent on constructive solutions

Dear Larz:

I am another past employee of Wilmington Memorial Library who has maintained an interest in my former town and place of employment. I was a librarian when Ms. Wiberg was hired for the automation project and for several years thereafter. I found Dot to be a dedicated, loyal employee who did her best to serve the needs of her community. I am not surprised that she could step in and serve as acting head of circulation with at least as much skill as her predecessor. Her computer skills developed over several years and Dot knew the public well.

Unfortunately, adhering to its history, the library did not choose integrity, honesty, and concern in hiring the new head of circulation (I would like to quibble with the term "Circulation Librarian" for someone without a library degree). Employees with those characteristics are not rewarded at the library. Along with "skilled" those are the characteristics Dot Wiberg would bring to the position permanently. I don't doubt her story of the hiring process at all.

The dilemma now is that because of a major error in judgement during the interview process, the library has hired the wrong competent person and is fighting a lawsuit by the person who should have gotten the job. It is time for the town to take a positive stance for the sake of integrity and to find a solution that will be equitable. Time (and money) should be spent seeking constructive solutions rather than defending actions.

The library could certainly stand to hire a head of circulation and a fulltime clerk. Reward competence and replace unproductive employees who are detrimental to the institution.

Sincerely yours,
Christine Dehoff,
Getzville, NY

Miceli says Weld's plan could result in Wilmington being cut in half

by Jeff Nazzaro

The State House of Representatives has rejected amendments by Governor William Weld (R) to the redistricting package the House approved early last week. Representative James R. Miceli called the amendments "purely political," adding he "understands what [Weld] did" in acting in line with the Republican Party.

Weld is now faced with the choice of vetoing the original plan, or having it become law. If he vetoes the plan, Miceli is confident the Democrat-dominated House will override it, insuring, "you can bet on it."

If the law is passed, the Massachusetts Republican Committee could challenge it in Federal Circuit Court, a scenario which might "spell disaster for Wilmington," according to Miceli.

Miceli believes in such a case, if a judge were to invalidate the House redistricting proposal, the Republican Party would offer an alternate plan that would cut Wilmington directly in half, leaving three of the town's precincts with Tewksbury and three with Andover. The Republicans filed such a plan at one of the regional hearings held by the House Redistricting Committee, of which Miceli is a member.

A judge may deem a redistricting plan illegal if it involves blatant gerrymandering, is unfair to minority communities or is comprised of illogically drawn districts. Miceli believes the House plan as originally passed to be "pretty solid" in passing "legal muster."

The governor's amendments, which would have secured a unified Wilmington district under Miceli, would also have affected every other district and pitted many incumbent Democrats against each other, while solidifying Republican positions, according to Miceli. For these reasons, the legislator felt, the amendments could not be accepted by the Democratic controlled House, nor would they have stood up in court.

Under the current plan, Miceli gains one precinct in Wilmington, giving him five, while losing one in Tewksbury. Whichever proposed districts are approved go into effect for the September 1994 elections to fill House seats starting in January of 1995.

GOING INTO A STALL

When a car stalls intermittently, the problem can usually be isolated with a diagnostic checkup. To help the auto technician make the correct diagnosis, it is necessary to know under what conditions the engine stalls. Is the engine cold or does it run normally and only stalls when it is hot? An engine that stalls when it is cold may have a heavy buildup of carbon in its intake manifold. An engine that stalls when it is fully warmed up (and also seems to idle too slowly) may have a defective idle air control motor in the fuel injection system. Some cars also stall when the speedometer cable is broken or disconnected. Because the on-board computer requires an electrical speed signal to reset the idle air control motor, the absence of a signal could cause the idle speed to fluctuate.

Since stalling may be due to so many different factors, the best course of action is to have your vehicle looked at by the experienced team of technicians at BOUDREAU'S AUTOMOTIVE SERVICE CENTER. We've been servicing the area's auto needs for the past 18 years, working on all foreign and domestic models. Sarah Robson likes to think of Tune Town as a "Mom & Pop" kind of music store. "We offer you the convenience of being right down the street!" she says, "Plus, where else can you go and park right in front of the door and walk right in... without having to hunt for a parking space?"
 Along with that convenience come a few more pleasant surprises. Tune Town's prices are about the same or a little less than local department stores, and their selection will amaze you. This store is wall-to-wall music! Over 10,000 titles of pop, rock, country, classical, movie sound tracks - if you don't see what you're looking for... just ask! Unlike the "big" stores, Sarah can usually have your special order in a day or two.
 Looking for a cassette single? Tune Town carries over 500 titles. Most are priced under $3.00, or you might be interested in their "Cassette Single of the Week," for just 99¢!

Learning is something children do... while they're having fun! That's the philosophy of the Lil Red Schoolhouse and, at this school, the children have lots of fun!
 At the Lil Red Schoolhouse, each child receives close, personal attention. At school, the physical, social, emotional, intellectual and aesthetic development of every child is encouraged.
 This early childhood center enrolls toddlers, nursery, full day, extended day, and school age children in various programs covering ages 15 months to 14 years.
 In the summer, the Summer Explorer's Camp is available for children ages 6 to 14 years. This year's theme is

Sarah Robson of Tewksbury's Tune Town

If you haven't caught up to cassettes and CDs yet... Tune Town has access to every 45 still in production, and some that are no longer available elsewhere.

At the Lil Red Schoolhouse... the children are having fun!

"Saving the Earth's Environment." The children will learn about the Rainforests, Deserts, and Atmosphere/Space. Students aged 12-14 can participate in a "Counselor in Training" program which enables them to help plan or run activities with the younger children.

Rep Miceli elected to Education Board

Rep. James Miceli (D-Tewksbury/Wilmington) has been elected to the Executive Board of the Massachusetts Democratic Leadership Council (Mass. DLC) at the organization's annual meeting. The Mass DLC is a chapter of the Democratic Leadership Council, a national organization designed to help strengthen the Democratic party by sharing grassroots values and ideals.

"The Mass DLC has given a voice to mainstream Democrats like myself," said Miceli. "We are working to re-establish those principles on which the party was founded - a true commitment to the middle class, a renewed sense of fiscal responsibility and a strong belief in hard work."

"Mass DLC is not about politics as usual," said newly-elected State Chairman, State Senator Marc R. Pacheco (D-Taunton), "no, is the chapter made up of only legislators. Many members are citizens concerned with the anti-middle class policies of the GOP in Massachusetts. On the national level and here in the Commonwealth, the DLC is working to build a strong America through economic opportunity and individual responsibility," he said.

Wildwood School looks at life of Columbus

The second graders at the Wildwood School recently held a performance of "The Wildwood School Chronicle of the Life of Christopher Columbus." This six act play, an annual event at the Wildwood School, was marked by outstanding effort on the part of the young actors and actresses.

Pictured in the first snapshot, as they sat on the dock in Genoa, Italy, were Richard Hupper, (the young Christopher Columbus), and sailors, John Couco, Amanda Martinello, Julieann Carbone, Ashley Sullivan, Robert Smith, and David Patalano. Christopher Columbus was discussing his wish for a life at sea in this scene.

In a later scene, the adult Christopher Columbus, Daniel Chalmers, was holding the microphone, as he addressed his son Diego (Brian Axelrod, who sat to his right), and fellow sailors, Michael Cotto, William Nee, Kurt Steenburgen, Matthew Gish, Stephen Iorio, and David Demango. Christopher was discussing his plans to ask the rulers of Spain for ships and supplies for a trip to India.

Christopher arrived at Spain and was greeted by the royal family, pictured are: guard, (Travis Mills), princesses (Jonelle Parry, Crystal Perry, Nicole Lancione, and Ashley Steenburgen), noblewoman (Gina Ranno), Queen Isabella, (Stefanie Gable), and King Ferdinand (Michael Kelley). Christopher Columbus left the Royal Court of Spain with promises of three ships, one hundred men and supplies to last a year, to be used in his voyage in a quest to find India.

Principal Robert Arsenault, presided over this affair, and commends the 62 children who had speaking parts in this play for their outstanding efforts in the eight annual production of the Wildwood School Chronicle of the Life of Christopher Columbus.

Fifth grade spent five days in Nature's Classroom

The fifth grade children of the Shawsheen and Wildwood schools have just returned from Nature's Classroom. They spent five exciting days in Charlton, Mass. There they studied the natural environment, participated in outdoor academic classes, and joined with their teachers and classmates in a learning, growing community.

Natural science was the primary task of morning field walks at Nature's Classroom. During these walks the children were shown and asked to consider the inter-relationships in the outdoor world. The field groups saw plants, animals and people coexisting in complex living systems.

The afternoon class periods at Nature's Classroom allowed the children to choose from a wide variety of special interest activities. Some children helped build a bridge while someone else participated in an edible foods hunt and others would learn how to use a compass. Which ever class was chosen, the goal remained the same; to demonstrate the vital link between academic subjects and real life experiences. Each Nature's Classroom teacher strived to illustrate the importance of the effective use of language arts abilities, math concepts, scientific methods, and social studies skills taught in the home school. Exciting class activities provided the students and their teachers with an increased motivation to return to their learning process and a refreshed attitude toward their year.

The groups sense of community was strengthened by experiences like living in cabins with teachers and peers, helping set tables for meals, taking turns serving food, and sharing responsibility for cleaning up. These experiences, along with the over all Nature's Classroom program, helped the group to develop a greater respect and appreciation for one another as valuable members of the whole community.

The underground railroad and the night walks were two of the most popular evening events at Nature's Classroom. A talent show was another popular night event. Each night was ended by a quiet sing along with the children and their teachers. All and all the boys and girls of the Shawsheen and Wildwood Schools had a fantastic time.

Toys for Tots collections at Andover Bank

Even Santa Claus needs a little help during the busy holidays and in the spirit of the season, Andover Bank has again joined with the U.S. Marine Corps in the Toys for Tots Program.

Toys for Tots was conceived in 1947 by Marine Corps Reserve Major William Hendricks. The program began as a local event to aid the orphaned children of World War II. The U.S. Marine Corps has since expanded its Toys for Tots mission to enrich the lives of culturally deprived children across the nation.

Since its inception, more than 70 million toys have been distributed to the underprivileged children of America. And every year, there are not enough toys collected to fill all the requests of the needy. Needy families in all communities write to the Marine Corps Reserve asking for toys. They in turn match up toys with those requests.

Everyone can participate in this program. Andover Bank has designated each of its banking offices as official Toys for Tots collection sites. Between November 22 and December 16, a decorated collection box will be set up in each of the branch offices for individuals to drop off toys. The Marines are asking for new ($5.00 minimum value), unwrapped toys suitable for toddlers, boys and girls or teens. No food, perishables or cash should be dropped in the collection box.

The Bank operates branch banking offices in Andover, Lawrence, Methuen, No. Andover and Tewksbury. For the address of the nearest branch, call 508-749-2000.

Lawrence McGondel in Little Brother program

Lawrence R. McGondel, Jr., son of Ms. Janet Manuel of Shawsheen Avenue, Wilmington, is a member of the St. Michael's College Little Brother/Little Sister Program. McGondel is a junior American studies major at Saint Michael's College, located on Colchester, Vt.

The Little Brother/Little Sister Program matches a St. Michael's student with a needy child from a nearby community. Saint Michael's students spend at least three hours a week with their little brother or sister doing a variety of activities and serving as positive role models.

This program recently sponsored a Halloween event during which the little brothers/sisters and their college siblings dressed up in lively costumes and participated in a party of fun, food and arts and crafts.

The Little Brother/Sister Program is one of several community services provided by Saint Michael's students to the poor and disenfranchised in the communities surrounding Saint Michael's.

Saint Michael's College, founded in 1904 and headed by President Paul J. Reiss, has been identified as one of the five best small comprehensive colleges in the nation. With a residential campus in the Burlington area of Vermont, the Catholic college has an enrollment of 1,700 full time undergraduate students and 500 graduate and international students.

The Jaques Family and Wilmington

by Capt. Larz Neilson
Keziah Thompson. There were many families in North Woburn named Thompson. There was one in Wilmington, 250 years ago, at what is now 2 Main St. Keziah was said to have been a Wilmington girl, but the family which lived at 2 Main St had no one of that name. She was probably from North Woburn.

Keziah Thompson married Samuel Jaques in Wilmington in 1751.

From whence Samuel Jaques came is not known. The name is of French Huguenot origin.

According to old reports the couple had 50 or 100 acres of land along Main Street from the present Wilmington Square to or beyond Clark Street. Samuel Jaques soon had a mill at Middlesex Avenue, where Mill Brook crosses under the street. There was a mill pond, upstream from Clark Street, either built at that time, or earlier.

There was already another mill on the site, supposed to be used for the cutting of shakes (shingles).

Traditionally that is the beginning of the Jaques family in Wilmington. The family grew and prospered. A home was built, facing the present Main Street, on the site where the New England Telephone & Telegraph building is today.

There were six children, the oldest of whom became Samuel (Jr.), an attorney. He married Ruth Wyman of Wilmington and there were 10 children.

Then, 200 years ago, in 1793 a group of business men, one of whom was Loammi Baldwin of Woburn established a company. They planned to dig a canal from Boston to the falls of the Merrimack River at Chelmsford.

The manufacturer of cotton cloth was the cause of this goal.

The Middlesex Canal was the first made in the United States for the transportation of cargo. Many cotton mills were constructed, and that part of Chelmsford was soon known as Lowell.

The people who established the Middlesex Canal were careful to protect their rights. They established "Proprietors" of the canal. One man in each community was to be a proprietor.

In Wilmington the Proprietor was Samuel Jaques, Esq., also known as Samuel Jaques Jr. The canal was only a few yards from his front door.

Operations started on the Middlesex Canal in 1804. The canal was busy. If no one had started a Lowell & Boston Railroad it would have eventually become a paying proposition. A lot of the construction debt incurred was paid, but the canal had to go out of business soon after the railroad started.

The Boston & Lowell was constructed in 1834-5. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks had been laid earlier, but this paper has been told, the original Baltimore & Ohio tracks have been taken up and not replaced.

The Boston & Lowell Railroad is today a part of the Boston & Maine. Question: Is it, today, the oldest railroad track in the United States?

The directors of the Boston & Lowell were interested in transporting cotton, and in not having any accidents. In any place where a road crossed their railroad tracks they built a bridge. Only two places did not have such a bridge, Winchester Square and West Medford.

In the beginning that meant two bridges in Wilmington only a few hundred yards from the Jaques home. There was a bridge for the Middlesex Canal and one for the railroad. The canal bridge was in existence until 1853.

A bridge was constructed where

P6618 From the Bridge, Wilmington, Mass.

No parking problems

The undated picture above probably dates before World War I and shows the "new" railroad depot in Wilmington and many buildings.

The ticket agent's office is in that part of the station which is closest to the railroad track. From that office little boys could hear telegraph keys, seemingly clicking all day and all night.

The tall chimney to the left is from the railroad roundhouse, which was to the left on the "Wildcat" Railroad. About seven locomotives were stored there every evening, for the passenger trains the next day. The passenger cars were stored to the right, on several sets of railway tracks, next to Middlesex Avenue.

A lunchcart, belonging to Arthur Hamilton of Church Street, is not in the picture. It stood for many years beside the entrance to the railroad yard. It was moved across Main Street about 1925 and became the property of Huntley's Lunch.

The smaller telephone poles are probably those which had the street car wires, for the Everett to Lowell street cars.

A family wash appears to be draped on a fence, across the street. It marks the site where Main Street became a level road. The next building, barely visible to the left, appears to be the Jaques house, constructed about 1751.

An Economy Grocery store, erected about 1920 is not in the photo, which helps to define the date.

Amasa Waterman. He held the job for about nine months.

On January 15, 1857 Joseph A. Ames became the postmaster. He held that office until he retired in 1881. It was always in the same building as the railroad station.

By 1900 that railroad station had become a two and a half story building, located on the Boston side of Burlington Avenue. In the lower floor the ticket agent had his office, and accommodations for passengers.

The second floor was reached by an elevated walkway from the Burlington Avenue bridge.

The second story store was a place to buy tobacco and "West India" goods. Those words go back to the 1870s.

In the 1870s one could not buy liquors in Wilmington. But, in an old building which is still standing, at the westerly corner of Middlesex Avenue and Clark Street, dwelt "Billy" Ames. There are many tales which persist about that gentleman.

One old tale is how he and some friends jumped across Mill Brook, one day. Everyone did it on one jump except Billy. He did it in two.

Billy dealt in "West India" goods.

There was a lot of excitement, one day in 1901, when the Wilmington railroad station burned down. A goodly crowd gathered to rescue materials.

Mary Buzzell was there. She, and her husband Dr. Daniel were living in the old Jaques home. The things she rescued were taken to her home, and afterward turned over to their owners.

A new railroad station was constructed, on the "Lowell" side of the Burlington Avenue bridge. It is still there, but no longer a railroad station.

About 1904 the railroad bridge was raised, to allow for bigger railroad cars on the B&M.

Thirteen years earlier, in 1892, electric street car rails were laid through Wilmington and across the bridge - the Woburn & Billerica Street Car railway line. It is said to have been the first electric street car line in Massachusetts.

The writer's father, then 16, fresh off the boat from his native Denmark had his first job in the new world lugging street car ties on his shoulder along the old Middlesex Canal. He lived with his brother on Chestnut Street.

The Woburn & Billerica Street Car line was extended to Burlington and from there back to Woburn. Al Fenton's father was an "operator" on those cars. He could on occasion tell some wild tales of his adventures.

Cutting the roots of the Wilmington Weed

The "Wilmington Weed" is a plant which may be readily distinguished in this third week of November.

The leaves on many trees have fallen. The Western Buckthorn, first planted in Wilmington in 1916, may be easily noticed because of its yellow leaves at this time. It will be seen growing by the roadside, in wood lots, and along fences, growing unattended.

Do not attempt to "chop" the trunk. If such a tactic is used there will be four or five trunks in about two years.

Termed the "Western Buckthorn," it is to be compared to lilac bushes for size, but not for beauty.

Paul Reed of Loumac Road was pictured with Louise Ouellette of Market and presented a new bicycle that Pamela won in the $100 dog food contest.

Frank Kaszynski Jr. of Jones Avenue returned home with a 225 pound nine point buck which he shot in Maine. His uncle Wally Romanski bagged a 10 pointer weighing out at 215 and Johnny Romanski had one with four points weighing out at 206.

Elia's Market offered blade steaks,

99 cents a pound; grapefruit, four for 39 cents; fresh milk, 49 cents a half gallon.

Band to the rescue

The Wilmington High School 'Band-Aid' drive was in high gear last Saturday at Demoulas, as the band neared their goal. Helping the cause were sub-freshmen Jennie Reynolds, Leanne Bento and Christine Crowley. The band kids will be back at Demoulas Saturday morning, Nov. 20 starting at 8:30 a.m. collecting food for the Wilmington Food Commissary.

Wilmington

The November 23, 1983 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Joseph Catizzi of Biggar Avenue was in Reading on Friday when he saw his car, a Ford Bronco being driven on High Street. Luckily, there was a policeman nearby. Reserve Officer Dave Richards radioed other patrolmen reporting that the vehicle was stolen. The other officer spotted the car just as the driver had to slow for heavy traffic. He abandoned the Bronco near the Reading depot, without damage.

Sweetheart Plastics dedicated a new nine acre warehouse located between the Middlesex Canal and the Boston and Maine Railroad.

Cheryl Arena, Diane Malek and James Vella, all of Wilmington were named to the honors list for the marking period at Our Lady of Nazareth Academy, Reading.

Tewksbury

The November 23, 1983 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

Workers were pictured pouring the final foundation for the Conlon house on Grasshopper Lane. The home sunk eight inches into the ground over a 28 year period due to the use of improper fill under it. Concrete pillars were poured into the ground to ensure the house will remain sturdy.

Pvt. Donald Flitwood of Vale Street completed one station and training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Airman Martin Winslow of Astle Street was assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill. after completing basic training.

President Elaine Conley and Vice President Joan Unger of the Tewksbury Garden Club were pictured with a portion of the quilts displayed in an exhibition sponsored by the group.

The Tewksbury Lions Club inducted Darryl Sittler who was the third new member to join during the group's October membership drive.

TMHS senior Rich Mornewick, considered one of the keys both offensively and defensively for the Redmen, was pictured taking part in football action.

After being rejected for the post of head of the Science Department at TMHSD, Daniel Stark beat out three other candidates and won a position as science teacher by a 4-1 vote of the school committee.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

PROOF OF LOSS

QUESTION: What is meant by a proof of loss statement? How does it fit into the insurance claim procedure?

ANSWER: If a person sustains an insurable loss, he should notify his agent within a day or two after the loss followed by proof of loss. This is a statement telling about the loss when and how it happened and the cash value of everything destroyed or damaged. Forms are available for reporting a proof of loss.

The insurance company has no liability until it receives the proof of loss. The filing of the statement, however, doesn't mean there has been any agreement regarding the actual amount of loss.

PROOF of loss should be given to your agent shortly after sustaining an insurable loss.

In the 1870s one could not buy liquors in Wilmington. But, in an old building which is still standing, at the westerly corner of Middlesex Avenue and Clark Street, dwelt "Billy" Ames. There are many tales which persist about that gentleman.

One old tale is how he and some friends jumped across Mill Brook, one day. Everyone did it on one jump except Billy. He did it in two.

Billy dealt in "West India" goods. There was a lot of excitement, one day in 1901, when the Wilmington railroad station burned down. A goodly crowd gathered to rescue materials.

Mary Buzzell was there. She, and her husband Dr. Daniel were living in the old Jaques home. The things she rescued were taken to her home, and afterward turned over to their owners.

A new railroad station was constructed, on the "Lowell" side of the Burlington Avenue bridge. It is still there, but no longer a railroad station.

About 1904 the railroad bridge was raised, to allow for bigger railroad cars on the B&M.

Thirteen years earlier, in 1892, electric street car rails were laid through Wilmington and across the bridge - the Woburn & Billerica Street Car railway line. It is said to have been the first electric street car line in Massachusetts.

The writer's father, then 16, fresh off the boat from his native Denmark had his first job in the new world lugging street car ties on his shoulder along the old Middlesex Canal. He lived with his brother on Chestnut Street.

The Woburn & Billerica Street Car line was extended to Burlington and from there back to Woburn. Al Fenton's father was an "operator" on those cars. He could on occasion tell some wild tales of his adventures.

Cutting the roots of the Wilmington Weed

The "Wilmington Weed" is a plant which may be readily distinguished in this third week of November.

The leaves on many trees have fallen. The Western Buckthorn, first planted in Wilmington in 1916, may be easily noticed because of its yellow leaves at this time. It will be seen growing by the roadside, in wood lots, and along fences, growing unattended.

Do not attempt to "chop" the trunk. If such a tactic is used there will be four or five trunks in about two years.

Termed the "Western Buckthorn," it is to be compared to lilac bushes for size, but not for beauty.

The Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd, 95 Woburn St., Reading, will hold its annual Jingle Bell Christmas Fair Saturday, December 4 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

This year's fair will feature an enlarged white elephant area, plus specialty tables displaying books, jewelry, plants, home baked products, toys and games, hand made Yuletide items, products for home, garden and sports, and the always popular children's gift wrap table. In addition, a highlight of the 1993 Jingle Bell Fair will be new display areas featuring the handiwork of local artists and craftspeople, a range of computer software, a selection of good used furniture, plus a table offering attractive handcrafted items. Along with face painting and sand art, this year as a special treat for the children, Santa Claus will visit twice during the day; at 10 a.m. and at 1:30 p.m. The church choir will lead a joyous holiday sing-along during the noon hour.

Coffee and donuts will be available throughout the fair hours and the country kitchen will open at 11:30 to serve a varied menu of delicious food.

Wilmington

The November 21, 1968 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Professor Charles Elliot when meeting with the Planning Board demonstrated on five large wall maps, including the proposed new Route 62, with two alternatives in Wilmington and a map of the present traffic pattern in Wilmington using 1965 figures.

Main Street, in 1965, at Bridge Lane, had an actual carrying capacity of 8,540 cars daily, and an actual traffic of 11,200, or an overload of 32 percent.

Eagle Scout John Daniell was pictured with his parents following the Court of Honor. With them was Alex Vervaret, Lowell Council of Boy Scouts who made the presentation and William Hooper, Troop 56 Scoutmaster.

Father Edmund Croke was pictured as he was inducted into the Rotary Club by Past President Harold Foley.

Pamela Reid of Loumac Road was pictured with Louise Ouellette of Lucci's Market and presented a brand new bicycle that Pamela won in the ALPO dog food contest.

Frank Kaszynski Jr. of Jones Avenue returned home with a 225 pound nine point buck which he shot in Maine. His uncle Wally Romanski bagged a 10 pointer weighing out at 215 and Johnny Romanski had one with four points weighing out at 206.

Elia's Market offered blade steaks,

99 cents a pound; grapefruit, four for 39 cents; fresh milk, 49 cents a half gallon.

Lucci's Super Market advertised sugar, five pounds for 39 cents with a $5 purchase; Oxford sweet mixed pickles, 28 oz jar, 39 cents; Festival ice cream, 46 cents a half gallon.

Band to the rescue

The Wilmington High School 'Band-Aid' drive was in high gear last Saturday at Demoulas, as the band neared their goal. Helping the cause were sub-freshmen Jennie Reynolds, Leanne Bento and Christine Crowley. The band kids will be back at Demoulas Saturday morning, Nov. 20 starting at 8:30 a.m. collecting food for the Wilmington Food Commissary.

Wilmington

The November 23, 1983 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Joseph Caizzi of Biggar Avenue was in Reading on Friday when he saw his car, a Ford Bronco being driven on High Street. Luckily, there was a policeman nearby. Reserve Officer Dave Richards radioed other patrolmen reporting that the vehicle was stolen. The other officer spotted the car just as the driver had to slow for heavy traffic. He abandoned the Bronco near the Reading depot, without damage.

Sweetheart Plastics dedicated a new nine acre warehouse located between the Middlesex Canal and the Boston and Maine Railroad.

Cheryl Arena, Diane Malek and Frances Vella, all of Wilmington were named to the honors list for the first marking period at Our Lady of Nazareth Academy, Wakefield.

10 Years ago

Tewksbury

The November 23, 1983 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

Workers were pictured pouring the final foundation for the Conlon house on Grasshopper Lane. The home sunk eight inches into the ground over a 28 year period due to the use of improper fill under it. Concrete pillars were poured into the ground to ensure the house will remain sturdy.

Pvt. Donald Elwood of Vale Street completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the US Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Airman Martin Winslow of Astle Street was assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill. after completing basic training.

President Elaine Conley and Vice President Joan Unger of the Tewksbury Garden Club were pictured with a portion of the quilts displayed in an exhibition sponsored by the group.

The Tewksbury Lions Club inducted Darryl Stiller who was the third new member to join during the group's October membership drive.

TMHS senior Rich Mornewick, considered one of the keys both offensively and defensively for the Redmen, was pictured taking part in football action.

After being rejected for the post of head of the Science Department at TMHSD, Daniel Stark beat out three other candidates and won a position as science teacher by a 4-1 vote of the school committee.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

PROOF OF LOSS

QUESTION: What is meant by a proof of loss statement? How does it fit into the insurance claim procedure?

ANSWER: If a person sustains an insurable loss, he should notify his agent within a day or two after the loss followed by proof of loss. This is a statement telling about the loss when and how it happened and the cash value of everything destroyed or damaged. Forms are available for reporting a proof of loss.

The insurance company has no liability until it receives the proof of loss. The filing of the statement, however, doesn't mean there has been any agreement regarding the actual amount of loss.

PROOF of loss should be given to your agent shortly after sustaining an insurable loss.

Christmas Concert will feature Maybelle Bliss

Miss Carolyn Stanhope will be mistress of ceremonies, a task she performs with great vivacity and humor.

The program will comprise the traditional favorites of the holiday season. Mrs. Bliss, well known in Wilmington as a piano teacher and performer will be joined by her friend, Aloha Jaynes, now of New Hampshire. Although both have classical background and were trained by different teachers, they enjoy playing show tunes, classics and swing music much to the pleasure of their audiences.

There will be a sing-a-long with Miss Stanhope directing the enthusiastic singers-a-long. These sing-a-longs are always far too short. Mrs. Bliss has always emphasized that at any time during the concert those who feel like joining in may do so. Many times she has said: "this is an afternoon to have fun."

There is almost always standing room only at these concerts. There is no admission fee. Children are most welcome. The performance is funded in part by the Mass. Cultural Council as administered by the Wilmington Council for the Arts.

The Arts Center is on Middlesex Avenue (Rt. 62) directly across the street from the Congregational Church.

Rash of car breaks on Ballardvale St

by Jeff Nazzaro
Wilmington Police were surprised at the quickness and the timing of a rash of car break-ins on Ballardvale Street and Industrial Avenue early last Friday morning.
Four car breaks between 7:30 and 8:00 a.m. Friday resulted in the attempted theft of one stereo, the actual theft of approximately $900 in stereo equipment and the burgling of approximately 65 compact discs from two separate cars. The perpetrators smashed windows on the cars they robbed.

Deputy Chief of Police Bernard Nally expressed his belief that all the thefts were related, but said "cars get hit usually after 10 o'clock" in the morning "when everyone's in work."

Deputy Nally vying for chief's job in Hudson, N.H.

by Jeff Nazzaro
Wilmington's Deputy Chief of Police Bernard Nally has been selected as a candidate for the Chief of Police position in Hudson, N.H.
Deputy Nally was one of seven applicants out of a pool of more than 60 interviewed for the job. The seven interviewed included the man whose position the department is trying to fill.
"I have no idea what's happening at the moment," Nally said in regards to the Chief's position he interviewed for November 6.

Nally, who began his law enforcement career as a Wilmington Police Department Patrolman in 1968 admits he is not sure how he would feel about leaving the town he has served for 25 years.
"I don't dare think much about [getting the job]. [Leaving] would be difficult, but if the opportunity came up I would have to give it some very serious thought," he said.

Busy before Turkey Day

Residents of Wilmington Woods put together a food box Monday to be donated to the Wilmington Community Fund Food Pantry. Helping to complete the project were Lillian McAdam, Bernice Rogers, Emma Tosi, Mary Natale, Helen Crawford, Frances Rothenberg and Mary Gooley.

Wilmington senior topics

Thanks, Elks, great as usual
Wilmington Senior Citizens are grateful to members of the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks for all the work and effort put into the recent Thanksgiving dinner-dance social. As usual the meal was great. Elks served approximately 250 seniors and after the tables were cleared and the dishes done, they joined the seniors who filled the dance floor.
Blood pressure/diabetes
Nurse Ann will be at the Senior Center Thursday, Nov. 18 from 1:30 p.m. She will be checking blood pressures and administering diabetes tests. With the holiday season approaching, seniors are urged these simple procedures done. They will detect high or low levels of blood sugar and/or blood pressure. Diabetes, the silent illness, can be active without a person being aware of it until it becomes a serious medical problem.

Hearing aid specialist
The hearing aid specialist will be at the Center Friday morning to test hearing of seniors and hearing aids for proficiency. This is a free service.
Some may be alone
Unfortunately, some homebound seniors, living alone or with spouse will not have family with them on the upcoming Thanksgiving holiday. Capable seniors are urged to visit them or invite them to dinner. Thanksgiving and other special holidays have become more meaningful to those who share their day with those without their loved ones nearby.

Whist game
Monday, Nov. 22 beginning at 1 p.m., the whist game will be played in the function room.
Nutrition class
The nutrition class will be held in the craft room Nov. 23, starting at 9:30 a.m. Now that the holiday season is here, it's doubly necessary to be careful of food intake. Too much fat can clog arteries, too much sugar can activate diabetes. Joining the nutrition class one can learn how to cook and eat nutritious meals. Not only is this a helpful class, it is also an enjoyable way to meet some seniors with the same medical problems, offering an opportunity to learn from each other.
Following the class, Chairman Marilyn McCarthy will take the group on a short walk.
Upholstering class
After Ray teaches the students how to cover the seats of chairs by covering those at the center that are in need; he will take a piece of furniture and teach the students how to reupholster correctly. This is also a good class and is free to Wilmington seniors.

Day care
Many seniors have expressed an interest in day care for parents or spouse. Cooperative Elder Services Inc. provides services during the day for frail elders. It is an adult day health and social day care agency located at New Horizons, 23 Warren Ave., Woburn. These programs provide a warm, friendly setting for frail elders who would benefit from a supervised daytime environment.
They offer nursing supervision, therapeutic recreation, door to door transportation and a hot meal and snack. The cost for clients who are not eligible for Medicaid or State Home Care reimbursement is $34 per day for the adult day care and $24 a day for the social day care program. Call 933-3723 for more information.

Farkas aims for national championship

Wilmington's Amanda Farkas, a freshman at Boston University, recently competed in the 1994 New England Figure Skating Championships, hosted by the Colonial Figure Skating Club. The event was held in Boxborough Oct. 26-30.

Thirteen New England skaters competed in the Senior Ladies Division hoping to earn one of four spots which would qualify them for the Eastern U.S. Championships.

Each skater is judged in two freeskating programs. Amanda received all first place marks for her outstanding performance in the technical program. This program is judged first for technical merit; how a skater performs the required elements, and second on composition and style; how a skater interprets their music.

The second freestyle program skated is also judged on technical merit and composition and style, but allows the skater more freedom of expression. Amanda also placed first in this event, winning the 1994 New England Senior Ladies Freestyle Championship.

She will be competing in the Eastern United States Figure Skating Championships in West Orange, N.J., Dec. 2-6, once again hoping to earn a spot in the U.S. National Championships which will be held this January in Detroit.

Letter to the editor

Cross Country suffers from major lack of support

Dear Rick:

Take a look around. Go to Billerica - to Tewksbury - to Lowell - go anywhere outside of the town of Wilmington. Pick up the local paper and open it up to the sports section. What do you see? You see exciting stories about the triumphs and even the follies of their high school teams - ALL of their teams.

You read about the football teams, the field hockey team, the boys and girls soccer teams; you can even catch a weekly article about the cross country team. The problem with Wilmington is that we have an imbalance of attention.

Well, Wilmington has its respectable length articles about the field hockey, soccer and volleyball teams. That is all good, but what's up with the eight page articles glorifying the loss of the football team, for example.

The football team does deserve publicity, just as do the other sports. What about all the writeups about the Pop Warner teams and the recreation soccer teams? No offense, but the idea of having a sports section in the local paper was primarily to convey news of the high school teams. The Wilmington High School Cross Country Team deserves some place about the "Squirt C's" and the "D Team." Did you notice that your town has a cross country team that can and does actually win? Wilmington High is experiencing a comeback in cross country, yet throughout the entire season there hasn't been a single article about it.

Background and improvement

The Wilmington High Cross Country Team has enjoyed a share of success in the past, but in recent years has struggled. Two years ago the team had some success winning three meets, but last year we were downright pathetic.

Last year's team spent more time hanging out with Strong Buck, our favorite terminally unconvinced resident of Wilmington, in the cemetery than actually running. Practice after practice we ran poorly. Team morale was at an all time low, and the team finished with a 0-10 record.

But this year the ghost of Strong Buck has been exorcised, and the team is back on the winning track. The team now has a winning attitude that has not diminished in the face of adversity and defeat. The enthusiastic attitudes of the varsity runners Pat Rufo, Brendan Rogers and Justin Yentile have been contagious and have even spread to the JV team. Everyone has worked and taken the team and running seriously. The cross country team no longer has the distinction of being the team with the fewest wins at the high school.

In addition to the new winning attitude, the team now has two coaches as compared to last year. Bob Cripps has joined the venerable Frank Kelley to give the team much needed guidance and discipline. Mr. Cripps is out on the road with the team every day making sure all is well, and that everyone does what he is supposed to be doing. In Mr. Kelley, the team has someone who has vast knowledge and experience (34 years). His voice can be heard (loudly) at every meet pumping up individual runners in their races. The team definitely has a great formula for success.

Money

As many of you know, students who want to play any high school sport are required to pay a $100 users fee. Money has been a problem with our cross country team. Since there are about 25 kids on the team, we should receive $2,500. Did you know that the cross country team receives only about $400, which pays for the buses for the four away league meets? This year we needed money to replace the uniforms. The old ones were around for years and barely staying together. We needed transportation to other important meets and money for entry fees. Where did we get this much needed cash? Coach Cripps and Coach Kelley had to raise this money through the sale of lollipops and shirts. With time and patience, they even managed to get some great warmup suits for the varsity.

The team is trying to help defray all the costs by getting donations from people for doing odd jobs around their houses.

Where does the rest of our users fee go? Why do we have to raise more money just to participate in track meets that should be considered part of our regular sports curriculum? The cross country team knows that times are tough for everyone and that we should all pitch in to help, but shouldn't the user fee that each student pays go to support the sport that they have signed up for? We should not be made to aid the more

Tighe Club duo is best of the rest

Next Labor Day weekend when Wilmington's Jay Tighe brings the Men's Major Modified National Softball Tourney to both Tewksbury (hopefully) and Wilmington, look for his very own ace pitcher Don Meader and Tewksbury's Bob Fowler to be leading the way for Jay's C and W Tighe Club. The Tighe Club is modified softball team based in Lowell that came within an eyelash of winning the national championship in Atlanta Georgia this past September.

All Meader did was pitch all 11 games in this year's national tourney as the Tighe Club went 9-2 before losing to Craft Tech of New York in the championship game. The 30-year-old Waterville, Maine resident was simply amazing, pitching every inning of the tourney-74 innings- and allowing only 18 earned runs along the way. Meader was named the Most Valuable Pitcher of the tournament to round out his amazing performance.

Meader's batterymate was Mr. Fowler, the ace catcher from Tewksbury who not only was super defensively, but batted .500 with 17 hits in 34 at-bats. Fowler drove in 13 runs and scored seven runs himself while being named a second team all-star. Area softball fans will be in for some late-summer treat should the Meader-Fowler duo come close to duplicating this year's performance. Softball at its best will be coming to Tewksbury and Wilmington.

Ballou starts second game

Wilmington's Dan Ballou, a freshman walk-on, started his second straight game for Wake Forest last week. Ballou recorded his first career reception in Saturday's 21-9 loss to Virginia.

Ryan Hoffman finishes eighth

Wilmington's Ryan Hoffman finished eighth in the Independent School Cross Country Championships held Saturday.

The eighth place finish gave Hoffman the highest finish ever by a sophomore at Belmont Hill School and the best in ISL cross country history. Hoffman came in 25 seconds behind the leader. Belmont Hill finished fifth out of 16 fielding teams in last Saturday's race.

Super effort

The Tighe Club's Don Meader came up with a major league performance in September's National Major Modified Softball Tournament in Atlanta, Ga.

costly sports that we are not even playing. Coach Cripps says, "If the school system wants athletics, they should support them."

Girls and lack thereof

The 1993 girls cross country team has done well, but three girls are not enough for the team. In order for a team to compete and receive points, there must be at least five runners on the team. It is difficult to believe that with all the spirit from the little school on Church Street, there are only three runners on the cross country team. The three girls are Allyson Murray, Colleen Stokes and Debbie Budd. Wilmington Girls' Cross Country will soon disappear if more girls do not join the team. It is hard to understand why Wilmington has a team of only three girls when other teams in the MVC have at least 10 girls on their team.

Expansion

Part of the problem with the embarrassing past seasons of the Wilmington High Cross Country team was the number of participants. For some reason, cross country has never been taken seriously in Wilmington. People seem to think of cross country as the sport for "losers who aren't good enough for a real sport." What Wilmington needs to realize is that this is not true at all.

It seems strange that just about every team that we face during the season consists of 40 or 50 boys and girls. Wilmington has had a whopping average of about 20 these past couple of years. With more members, the team could improve.

This is because of two factors. First, with more runners, there would obviously be a greater pool of runners to knock out the opposing team's runners from the top finishing positions. Second, having more runners would eliminate the sub-conscious intimidation due to the size of the other teams.

This stereotype about cross country being for geeks only is a bunch of bologna. We strongly encourage all of the incoming freshmen to go out for the team next year. No one gets cut. Young runners are the lifeline of the future of the cross country team. About half of this year's team will have graduated by 1995. Obviously, we aren't just looking for young runners. We just want runners, period.

Next fall, if you find yourself sport-less, come out for the team. You might be surprised, the cross country team is a lot of fun. We need to expand.

Support

One thing that has hurt the cross country team this year is the support of fans. The fact is, we have none! Cross country may not be a great spectator sport, but it deserves as much support as other high school sports. For one thing the team has greatly improved from the past few years. We've been victorious on several occasions and next year's squad looks even better.

Coach Cripps talks about building the team for the future. How can we build a team if the underclassmen avoid signing up because the school doesn't even acknowledge cross country as a "real sport?" Our school principal doesn't go to any of the meets. Yet, he goes to the football team's games. Also, many of the other sports teams seem to enjoy ridiculing our team even as we go to practice. Talk about school spirit!

The main point is we should be getting more support than we have been. If people come out to cheer for us it would boost the morale of the team greatly. With the assistance of fans we may even go undefeated.

Knicks should be the best

by James Pote

Another NBA season has begun, with some key players moving out while some key ones are moving in. Michael Jordan and Kevin McHale are out, while Chris Webber, Anfernee Hardaway, Jamal Mashburn and Calbert Chaney are in.

Even with Jordan retiring, the NBA is in spectacular shape, with Shaquille O'Neal, Larry Johnson, Alonzo Mourning and Tom Gugliotta leading the young stars to many great years to come, not to mention Charles Barkley, Patrick Ewing, Carl Malone and Mr. Olajuwon leading the way for the proven veterans.

Atlantic Division

New York Knicks: Probably the last year the Knicks will be in this position with the emergency of Orlando. Patrick Ewing will lead the way with Charles Smith and guard John Starks. The Knicks have a lot of depth on their bench with Anthony Mason, Greg Anthony and Rolando Blackmon, and that's why they will finish ahead of the Magic.

Orlando Magic: Along with the Charlotte Hornets, the Magic seem to be the next team other than the Chicago Bulls to have a chance to win three championships in a row. However, this year the Magic will be right up there, but they need a power forward to put them in that position.

But, having Shaquille O'Neal and Anfernee Hardaway as the one-two punch is not a bad way to start.

Miami Heat: The Heat definitely have a lot of talent but a tough division will keep them in the middle of the race. Ron Seikaly, Glen Rice and Harold Miner will need to double their figures to overcome the Knicks and Magic.

Washington Bullets: Yet another young team on the rise. The Bullets will be the surprise team this year, with all the experts riding them to finish last. The Bullets have a very solid starting five with Tom Gugliotta and Pervis Ellison on the side of newly acquired Kevin Duckworth, rookie Calbert Chaney and Michael Adams.

New Jersey Nets: With the death of Drazen Petrovic and Derrick Coleman turning down a 69 million dollar contract, the Nets could be an off the court team rather than an on the court surprising team. Rumeal Robinson and Benoit Benjamin are expected to put up some numbers.

Boston Celtics: Not only did the Celtics lose Reggie Lewis to a tragic death, but Kevin McHale and Larry Bird in the last two years. The Celtics have their share of problems, but a couple of lottery picks will get them back in their usual form.

A lot is expected from Dee Brown, Kevin Gamble and Rick Fox, whether or not they will come through is another question. Dino Radja could be a surprise, as could Acie Earl. However, the X-man and Robert Parrish seem to be on their last legs.

Philadelphia 76ers: A team that picked the most overrated player Shawn Bradley. He's going to fall on his face and so will the organization.

Mite's play tough hockey

The Tewksbury Mite 3 Instructional hockey team faced off against Methuen 4, where not only were the Redmen outsized but they were also outshot.

Frank Halley was in net for Tewksbury in which he had 30 plus shots giving up only six goals. Scott O'Neill had two goals in the game, while Steven Maida and Jenna Bristol had the assists.

Ryan Walsh and Patrick Fitzmaurice put on a couple of hard rushes to the net in the third period but could not buy a goal. David Belfour and Stephen Aldred played a great defensive game.

The Tewksbury Squirt B Team had a very exciting game over Medford 2 Team. To start the Redmen off was Thomas McNeil who picked the top corner past Medford's goalie with assist went to Marc Bristol and Chad Andella.

Twelve seconds later Medford tied the game up only to see the Redmen take advantage on the pass Andella received from Bristol who then scored on a nice shot to make the score 2-1 at the end of the first period.

With a fast pace to the second period Brian Losh in net with help from defensemen John O'Leary and Matt Harriman kept Medford off the board in the second period.

Forty-one seconds into the third period Dave Cabradilla scored a nice backhand to put Redman up 3-1, with assists going to Marc Bristol (his third of the game) and Ryan Carrigan. Medford scored late in the third and Tewksbury went on to win 3-2.

How about a warning next time?

by Bill Conlon
The laws keep changing for deer season, and two pretty big changes don't appear in the abstracts of the state fish and game laws this year.

The first change adds three days to the shotgun deer season in zones 1 - 12, or basically in all of the state that anyone is likely to hunt. Take it to the bank, the shotgun deer season is now November 29 to December 4, or two full weeks.

It would have been nice to learn about the extended season earlier in the year, say in April. That way we could make arrangements for an extended stay in the woods. It looks like only those with time on their hands will be able to enjoy the three extra days.

The second change was made just a few days ago.

On November 9, Governor Weld signed into law a regulation change that will allow mechanical releases for bow hunting. (The bow season for deer opened on November 8, by the way.) The Governor included an emergency preamble to allow the law to take effect immediately.

A mechanical bowstring release is a small, hand-held device that clips onto the bowstring, and gives the archer a "trigger" to pull to release the string. Instead of drawing the string by hand, using three fingers, the release provides a handle to pull back. Easier on the fingers, if you want to know the truth and pulling the trigger is a more precise way to release the string (i.e. accuracy!).

Up until the new law, archers had to wear a glove or a pad, and hold the string with their fingers. It can put a strain on the fingertips to hold a 60-pound bow at full draw for while His Lordship decides whether to step in the clear or change ZIP codes.

Mechanical releases are common in most states, and many archers prefer them for the stability (and therefore accuracy) they provide.

But signing such a new law into effect after the season opened was a bit silly. Bowhunters in the Bay State had no chance for any target practice with the releases, so they lose out. Target and 3-D shooters who already use releases are ready to go, and so are non-residents, but Massachusetts bowhunters have to play catch up, with the season now underway.

The use of mechanical releases is not complete, however. Crossbows are still illegal, and so is any device to hold the string back at full draw.

But come on, folks, give us a little warning when you're about to put new laws into effect.

A note to the wise: Blaze Orange will fade with wear, and the EPOs (Environmental Police Officers) all carry color-coded strips to hold up against your jacket and hat to see if your orange is legal. If your color has faded, it'll cost you.

I got in a little hunting over last week's vacation, but not much. My wife's situation is too critical. She's in rough shape. A little time with the bow, here and there.

On Thursday, I visited the Martin Burns Wildlife Management Area in Newbury with my stepson, Jon Woodman. The place was busy for the middle of the week, but I was still able to thump a cock pheasant that went up right in front of me. A permanent mistake for the bird.

On October 28, I happened to see the TV program American Journal, and I was furious. They were on a tear about California police putting cheap handguns on the streets! Oh, heavens! The handguns (cheap and fancy, but they focussed on the $25 Ravens and ignored the expensive Berettas and S&Ws) had been taken off the street, and rather than spend $50,000 to melt them all down, San Bernardino police sold the guns to licensed gun dealers. The reporters at American Journal showed their liberal colors by ranting against the plan. But I rather fancied it. Why spend my tax money to melt down expensive guns that would sell?

environmental notes

Septic system changes

by George R. Allan

If you are connected to Wilmington's sewer system, don't bother reading any further. However, if you are like 95 percent of the residents, you need to be aware of some changes proposed by the state for septic systems. The changes have generated a lot of publicity and consternation among builders and homeowners alike.

The regulations that govern on-site sub-surface disposal (septic system) are referred to as Title 5 of the Mass. Environmental Code. They were last revised in 1978. In 1991, the DEP studied the current regulations and has proposed significant changes. Some people think the DEP over-reacted and bowed to pressure from environmental activists.

In Massachusetts, about one third of all homes use some type of septic system or cesspool. The DEP believes that about 50 percent of these systems are sub-standard. Failing systems can pollute lakes, rivers, and aquifers.

Properly constructed and maintained, septic systems are an effective way to treat and dispose of household wastes. They are, in effect, mini-sewage treatment plants. In approving a new septic system, the local Board of Health relies on a percolation (perc) test to see if the liquid will flow through the soil at a reasonable rate and a deep hole test to determine the ground water level. The leaching field must be a minimum of four feet above the high groundwater level; otherwise, the effluent from the leaching field pipes will not receive sufficient filtering before reaching the water table.

The effluent from septic systems and cesspools can contain bacteria, viruses, nitrates, heavy metals, and detergents. The ability of the soil to treat or dilute these potential contaminants depends upon the quantity of the effluent, the type of soil, and the density of the leaching fields in the area. The Silver Lake area had many septic systems in a relatively small area that were threatening the quality of the lake. This was the primary reason for sewerage that area. Because of this sewer, Silver Lake is still swimmable.

Some of the more important proposed changes to Title 5 include the following:

*Systems built before 1978, but not in an aquifer recharge area, would need to be inspected with five years, and if found sub-standard, would have to be upgraded when the property is sold;

*Systems built before 1978, but in an aquifer recharge area (which includes a good portion of Wilmington) must be inspected within three years, and if sub-standard, upgraded within five years.

These two changes could effect the town in a couple of ways. First, will additional staff need to be hired by the Board of Health for the required inspections? Will the people living in 30 and 40 year old homes be able to sell their home if they need to construct a new septic system before it can be sold?

Another proposed change would effect new home construction. It would require a minimum lot size of 40,000 square feet for a four bedroom home in the primary recharge area around the town's wells. In addition, the leaching field would need to be a minimum of 50 feet from wetlands and 150 feet from lakes and rivers.

The DEP held public hearings throughout the state during October. Because of the concerns expressed by many people the state has postponed indefinitely the January 1, 1994 start date of the new regulations.

Look for more public debate on the more controversial changes. Hopefully, we will be able to strike a balance between environmental protection and common sense.

Tocci Project wins build Mass Award

Warren Hansen of Tewksbury, with Woburn-based Tocci Building Corporation, supervised the construction of the new Robbins Library in Arlington, MA. The project was recognized for construction excellence at the seventh Build Massachusetts Awards Program, held on October 16. The biennial awards program was initiated in 1981 by the Associated General Contractors (AGC) of Massachusetts to recognize project team effectiveness in the corporate, institutional and public building sectors. "Build Massachusetts" is considered the most comprehensive and prestigious construction awards program in the commonwealth.

The project team of Tocci Building Corporation, Wallace,

Floyd, Associates Architects and the City of Arlington were honored. In presenting the awards, the selection team cited the challenge of successfully completing this historically significant project within the constraints of the Massachusetts public construction system.

Mr. Hansen is a career professional construction superintendent with thirty years of experience in the Boston area. In recent years, he has completed over $100 million in construction including work for MIT, Suffolk University, Massachusetts Eye & Ear Infirmary, Veterans Administration Spinal Cord Rehabilitation Center and Boston University Medical Center.

CAUSE FOR CELEBRATION - Rocky Nelson, head coach at Woburn High, hugs one of his players after defeating Reading 18-0 last week and regaining bragging rights for another year. (Joe Brown photo)

"For two hours he's trying to kick our butt and I'm trying to kick their butt"

By KEN MAGUIRE

After most football games, whether it be professional, college, or high school, the two head coaches usually meet around midfield for the customary handshake as a sign of good sportsmanship.

Despite the appearance of good will, some coaches would admit that they'd much prefer wrapping their hands around their opponent's neck, not their hand. But last Saturday, two high school coaches shook hands and actually meant it.

Reading's Tom Kasprzak and Woburn's Rocky Nelson are close friends. They coached together 24 years ago, have led stellar careers, and now find themselves arch rivals on the field. Off the field, however, is a different story.

When these two men are not coaching football, they're probably talking about it at work, where they just happen to share an office. Both are physical education teachers at Woburn High School.

Many of Kasprzak's students are Woburn Tanner football players that beat his Reading Rocket team last week 18-0. The win puts Woburn in the driver's seat for first place in the Middlesex League and a Super Bowl birth. It was Reading's first loss in almost two full seasons of league play.

It is an odd situation to say the least. Picture General "Stormin'" Norman Schwarzkopf discussing war maneuvers with Saddam Hussein over a hot cup of coffee the morning after a Desert Storm battle.

"For two hours he's trying to kick our butt and I'm trying to kick their butt," Rocky Nelson said. "When the game is over you just shake hands, forget about it, and you're friends again. That's what's nice about the situation. He and I are very good friends. I've known him for 24 years and I can't say one bad word about him."

Kasprzak will have a hard time forgetting about last

READING FOOTBALL HEAD COACH Tom Kasprzak celebrates last year's victory over Woburn, but now the shoe is on the other foot. Woburn, coached by Kasprzak's good friend Rocky Nelson, came out victorious last week. Both men are physical education teachers at Woburn High and share an office. (Don Young file photo)

Saturday in Woburn. Although 18-0 does not look too bad. Reading simply did not play well offensively. After the game, the Rocket coach spoke to his arch rival/co-worker/friend: "I said I was sorry we didn't give a better challenge to his football team."

So Woburn now has bragging rights until the teams meet again next year. But it was only one year ago that Reading powered its way to a 26-0 victory over the Tanners, sealing the Middlesex League title and a Super Bowl bid.

Respect, however, keeps both sides from gloating.

"Our kids know that he's a great teacher and a great football coach," Nelson said. "I think there is mutual respect." Kasprzak added that there was "a little kidding this week" but nothing that pushed the boundaries of bad taste.

It's been 21 years since the two men coached together for Woburn High's sophomore squad. Nelson took the defensive chores and Kasprzak, a former running back, handled the offense back in those days.

A foxy lady and marriage

MALDEN'S KAHN IS ONE FOXY LADY - Did you look twice when the news came on after "Melrose Place"? Did you think you were watching the Malden evening news? Malden native Heather Kahn - daughter of Arthur and Barbara Kahn - is the principal news anchor for New England Cable 24-Hour News which co-produces the 10 p.m. newscasts Monday through Friday on Fox Channel 25.

Born and raised in Malden, Kahn graduated with honors from Malden High in 1985 where she was a cheerleader and class officer. She danced for the Boston Ballet for 12 years and in 1985 became Miss Massachusetts (as had her mother before her). She graduated from the Boston University College of Communications with a B.S. in journalism, participating in BU's London Internship Program and interning for World News Tonight at ABC's London Bureau.

On her way to Channel 25, she was a news anchor, reporter, producer, and talk show host. At New England Cable, she does live interviews and general assignments.

Heather is one of the most luminous of the Kahn family jewels: Malden Jewelry has been a bright link in the Pleasant Street business community for more than 60 years. Kahn was in Malden recently to address the Kiwanis Club - we hear she dazzled them.

Technically Speaking...

To assure luxurious comfort, high density foam wrapped with unbounded virgin polyester fibers is used to create each cushion. It is then covered with a special ticking for retention of shape and durability. These cushions also have a limited lifetime warranty.

Each frame is kiln-dried using select hardwoods and then precision machined (no hardwood substitutes).

The motion mechanism is prime cold-rolled formed steel with reinforced solid rivets for smooth operation. For life-long easy opening, delrin and brass bushings are mandated on all of these recliners.

Double dowel joints are corner-blocked, glued and screwed into position. For lifetime stability, steel L brackets are permanently secured to each recliner frame.

Coaches Nelson and Kasprzak

captain in his playing days, stayed with his hometown program. He became the defensive coach for the varsity squad and was the heir apparent nine years ago to Peter Sullivan's head coaching post. Rocky is now in his eighth year as head coach.

Kasprzak chose to move on. "We both had our dreams," he explained. "I inherently understood that if either one of us was to become head coach at Woburn it would be Rocky Nelson. He was the obvious person to take over the job, and with good reason. His record speaks for itself."

Saugus, Melrose and Stoneham became the next three stops for Kasprzak, a Melrose native. He has been head coach at Reading for three years and is "very happy" there.

Just for kicks, he thinks about what a team would be like if he and Nelson shared the coaching duties.

"I think it would have been fun at one time to see how we would have done at a varsity level," Kasprzak said. "I think we would have done well together."

At Stoneham High School, Kasprzak and a crack staff rebuilt the Spartans from oblivion to respectability to Middlesex League title contenders. He spent nine years there as head coach, but saw Reading (three years ago) as an opportunity he could not pass up.

"I felt it was decision time for me," he said. "Maybe (the move) was to rejuvenate an enthusiasm for coaching. Anybody can stay in one place and get stale. I had a lot of great experiences in Stoneham. But personally, I needed something new."

Kasprzak stresses that his staff in Stoneham was just as responsible for the school's football success as he was. Nelson says that Kasprzak and Reading make a perfect marriage.

"It's a perfect match," said the Tanner coach. "Some communities are just perfect for an individual. Reading is perfect for Tommy. He went over there and did an unbelievable job. He's put them on the map. They had won 19 league games in a row without losing until Saturday. That's an unbelievable accomplishment."

Kasprzak calls Nelson "an outstanding coach." He said Nelson's style is slightly different than his. Nelson, he says, is fiery and uses a lot of emotion with his players, while he is more reserved.

Tanner country has traditionally been that of hard-nosed football, and Nelson's philosophy is no different.

"We try to beat up on people," said Nelson, who is one of the most winningest coaches in the state. "We play blue collar-type football. It's a fun place to coach and we have an outstanding staff. Woburn is a football city, no question about it."

Woburn is looking at its second Super Bowl appearance in three years if it can beat Thanksgiving Day rival Winchester, who is no pushover. If Winchester beats Woburn and Reading handles Stoneham, then the Rockets go to the Division 2 Super Bowl.

Kasprzak is not confident. "My gut feeling is that Woburn has peaked at the right time and will win on Thanksgiving," the Rocket coach said. "It's going to be a tall order for them to beat Woburn."

Normally, the two coaches speak freely during the week about upcoming opponents and football in general. But this week is different. Kasprzak will be cheering for Winchester and does not plan on sharing too much information with Nelson, all in good fun of course.

Win, lose or draw on Thanksgiving, Reading versus Woburn has become quite a rivalry. And both coaches would be fibbing if they said they don't enjoy beating each other.

"It really isn't Kasprzak versus Nelson," Rocky Nelson explained, "it's Reading versus Woburn. Sometimes there's too much hype between the two of us because we're in the same office. But sure, you like to beat your friends. It's competitive and it's a lot of fun, it really is."

'Elephant Man' in Wakefield this weekend

"But sometimes I think my head is so big because it is so full of dreams," says John Merrick. This comment was made by Mr. Merrick, also known as the Elephant Man, when he met the beautiful English actress, Ms. Kendal. This quotation caught the attention of Adam Chapman who will portray John Merrick in the Wakefield Memorial High School Drama Club production of "The Elephant Man" written by Bernard Pomerance.

Adam Chapman lives with his parents, Cliff and Sheila Chapman and a younger brother, Nathan, who is a student at the Atwell School. His family has encouraged Adam throughout his years in the Wakefield school system. Adam attended Greenwood School, Atwell School, Galvin Junior High School and he is currently a Junior at the high school, Class of 1995.

At the high school, Adam has been an active member of the Band, Jazz Band and Symphony Orchestra. His interest in performing brought him into the area of drama. Last year's audiences remember seeing Adam in "Charlie's Aunt." He won rave reviews for his portrayal of a dashing, young man about campus. "Adam has a definite flair for comedy," says Ron Chibaro, Wakefield drama teacher and fall play director.

Performances of "The Elephant Man" will be held on November 17, 18, 19, 20 and a matinee on November 21 at The Wakefield Memorial High School Lecture Hall. Adult tickets are $8, seniors and students $6.50.

"It's a lot easier when you play the game earlier in the year," Nelson continued. "The last two years it's come down to week nine, playing for the Middlesex League title. But that's what you coach football for and that's why you play. It makes it exciting."

Both men have a firm grasp on reality, unlike some maniacal coaches who see kids as players only. Both stress academics first, and then sports.

"Some kids are out there with a lot of problems," Nelson said. "If some kid drops a ball or misses a tackle, it's not the end of the world."

Kasprzak agrees, and says that coaches sometimes receive too much credit for their team's performances. "I've learned one thing," he said, "players win football games, not coaches."

Nelson and Kasprzak both said they plan on staying put in their current positions.

"We're both doing something we love," Kasprzak said. "We're both doing it pretty well right now and I think it's terrific."

WOBURN BECOMES LITERATE - The Eastern Massachusetts Literacy Council met recently at the Woburn Public Library to talk about how to improve services to the Woburn community. Directed by Donna Salacuse, the council trains literacy tutors in how to instruct adult native English speakers and those who speak English as a second language in basic literacy skills. The meeting was successful, resulting in additional ideas for the council and more importantly, additional tutors.

FREE LECTURE: "HUMOR AND PARENTING"

Having and raising children is one of life's greatest joys. Watching a child grow from an infant to a young child to an adult is truly a wonderful experience. But in between those times of joy, there may also be some trying times. Somehow, when dreaming of having a family, one never imagined of the sleepless nights, cranky children, sibling rivalry, muddy tracks across the kitchen floor and neglected household duties.

If a mom or dad who has been finding the joys of parenthood to be a little less than joyful, what they need is a shot in the arm of humor.

They can have their prescription for laughter filled, and then some, when the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital and Melrose School System present Humor and Parenting on Wednesday, December 1 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Melrose Memorial Hall, 590 Main Street, Melrose.

Humor and Parenting is one in a series of ongoing lectures called Parents Clubs offered as a community collaboration of the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital and the Melrose School System. Other lectures focusing on family issues were offered throughout the fall.

This program is free, but registration is required. Please call the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital Family Education Department at (617) 979-3408 or 979-3515.

Stoneham contract dispute

AD WARS HIT STONEHAM - During their recent contract discussions, the Stoneham School Committee and the Stoneham Teachers Association both took out dueling ads in the "Stoneham Independent."

Chairman Jeanne Craigie, Vice Chairman Robert Wellman, Rita Ahrens, Marie Christie, and Paul Melkonian of the Stoneham School Committee sent the following open letter to parents of Stoneham public school children and concerned citizens:

"After some twenty-two months of unsuccessful efforts by the Stoneham School Committee and the Stoneham Teachers Association to reach agreement on a contract, the time has come to communicate directly with those served by the Stoneham Public Schools. The School Committee deeply appreciates teachers and values their important work. From the very beginning of negotiations, the Committee has sought a fair contract for teachers within the financial resources of the Town.

"What is a fair contract for our valued teachers in these economic times? The School Committee has offered the following to our teachers: three (3) percent salary increase effective September 1, 1993; four (4) percent salary increase effective September 1, 1994; teachers increase their share of health insurance payments five (5) percent effective July 1, 1994 (the Town pays 90 percent in 1993-94 and 85 percent in 1994-95); increase longevity pay for all teachers with five (5) or more years experience effective at some point during the contract; add a new category of longevity pay for teachers with twenty-five (25) or more years experience effective September 1, 1993; more than double tuition reimbursement for professional courses effective September 1, 1993; increase teacher lunch periods to thirty (30) minutes effective September 1, 1994.

"The committee recognizes that our teachers did not receive a salary increase in 1992-93. However, other Town employees found themselves in a similar situation for both 1991-92 and 1992-93. Teachers received a five (5) percent raise in 1991-92 and, where appropriate, received step raises in 1992-93 and this year.

"The Committee appreciates that teachers, like all Town employees, agreed to save the Town money by changing health insurance carriers this past summer. However, the notion that this was part of collective bargaining with the School Committee or coalition bargaining with the Town is simply incorrect. The modest saving was used to avoid further lay-offs and to provide for funding of anticipated staff contracts.

"The School Committee proposal costs more than we have in the budget; therefore, some cut-backs and economies will be necessary. HOWEVER, EVERY DAY THAT PASSES MAKES FUNDING THIS FAIR CONTRACT OFFER MORE DIFFICULT.

"The School Committee is very concerned with the effect of WORK-TO-RULE on the quality of education for Stoneham children, on the college and career goals of our seniors and on the morale and the collegiality of teachers. THIS PRACTICE BENEFITS NO ONE.

"Negotiations have reached the point where FACT FINDING proceedings are likely to be initiated. The process could go on for months. THIS DELAY SERVES NO ONE.

"The School Committee believes that its contract offer to teachers is fair, addresses their concerns, and balances adequate compensation with our goal to avoid further lay-offs and program cuts.

"We would greatly appreciate your understanding and support."

Coming next: the Stoneham Teachers Association's open letter to the parents of Stoneham and concerned citizens.

World of immigration comes to life

The world of immigration comes to life on Sunday, November 21 at the Peabody Essex Museum in Salem. As the second in a series of hands-on family programs, "Unpacking the Immigrant Experience" offers an opportunity to capture the adventure and wonder of immigrant voyages to America.

Children of all ages and their parents are invited to pick up an official "Passport" from 1 to 4 p.m. and come aboard a journey through the sights and sounds of the nation's cultural heritage. A concurrent exhibition entitled

"Steamship Travel" will also be of interest to those who participate in the program.

"The story of immigration is one that most of us can relate to in a very personal way," said Ellen Fineberg, Director of Education and Public Programs at the Peabody Essex Museum. "This family program is more than a learning experience, it is a way for generations within families to explore and share their own heritage."

The afternoon begins with "The First Day," a succession of performances depicting transatlantic steamship voyages with actors Richard Scott and Erin Enwright. Three 15 minute mini-plays will explore the hardships of shipboard life and the anticipation of arriving in a new land with performances scheduled at 1:45, 2:30 and 3:15 p.m. "Passport, Please" will recreate the hustle and bustle of an arrival at Boston's Receiving Station where passports, papers and quarantines meant a ticket to America or a long trip back to the "old country."

Admission to "Unpacking the Immigrant Experience" is free to museum members. Non-members admission includes all museum galleries: Adults, $6; children 3-18, $3.50; family, $15.

The Peabody Essex Museum is an international museum of art, history and culture located on adjacent city blocks in the center of historic Salem. The museum offers outstanding exhibitions of maritime art and history, Asian export art, New England natural and cultural history and the arts of Asia and the Pacific. The museum is open daily. Call (508) 745-9500 for further information.

Grill 93 opens Children's Theater

On Sunday, November 21, a new concept in children's theater will open at the Grill 93 in Andover. Conceived by Grill 93 owner Jeffrey Katz, this theater production will be accompanied by lunch for children and adults. Starting on November 21 and every Saturday and Sunday, "A Christmas Carol" will be performed through the holiday season. The Children's Theater at Grill 93 will be the area's first Lunch Theater.

"A Christmas Carol" will be presented by the "Hampstead Players" -- a theatrical touring company based in New Hampshire. The Hampstead Players now perform 2,500 shows per year in the United States.

The shows will be two actor performances, with each actor playing several parts in elaborate masks and costumes. Audience participation, including small on-stage roles for a special few, capture the children's attention and open their eyes to the excitement of live theater.

Shows will be at 2 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday with lunch beginning at 12:30 p.m. Special shows are available Thanksgiving weekend and school vacation week daily December 26-30. Tickets including lunch are: $9.95 for kids and $13.95 for grown-ups. Show only tickets are available for $6 and $8.

Reservations can be made by stopping by Grill 93 or by calling (508) 687-2442. A Special voice mail has been set up for show information and the number is: (508) 68-SHOWS (7-4697).

The Three Musketeers

"The Three Musketeers" Starring Charlie Sheen, Kiefer Sutherland, Chris O'Donnell, Oliver Platt, Tim Curry, Rebecca De Mornay. Directed by Stephen Herek. Screenplay by David Loughery. Produced by Joe Roth, Roger Birnbaum. Based on the novel by Alexandre Dumas. Rated PG.

Certain action films, such as "The Last of the Mohicans," "Robin Hood," and "The Three Musketeers," are remade every 15 or 20 years, whether audiences are clamoring for them or not.

Some, of course, are better than others. In the latest cinematic installment of the rollicking Alexandre Dumas novel, young King Louis of 17th Century France desperately needs protection from the nefarious Cardinal Richelieu (Tim Curry). To his aid gallop loyal Musketeers Kiefer Sutherland as the brooding Athos, Charlie Sheen as the sophisticated Aramis and Oliver Platt as the hearty Porthos.

Add to this swashbuckling set the dewy Chris O'Donnell as naive but brave Musketeer-Int Training D'Artagnan, and what you have is a package sure to attract the youth market. There may not be a lot of charisma, but the energy level is palpable.

This version could never match the practiced sparkle of the 1974 Richard Lester flick starring Oliver Reed, Michael York and Richard Chamberlain. Sutherland's performance is admirable as a broken-hearted man tinged with bitterness, and Platt manages lusty comedy without appearing buffoonish. But the cast simply hasn't the personality to stand the test of time, though they weren't given the witty dialogue found in the 1974 version.

This film does, however, pulsate with youthful exuberance and unbridled energy. You will not be disappointed by the delightful Austrian backdrops and colorful, detailed costumes. It may be somewhat callow, but it is never dull.

Though the Musketeers are kept busy with swordplay, it is Curry who gets all the fun word-play. Swathed in crimson church finery, his comedic timing is matched by shiveringly evil ambitions and a villainous temperament. Large and powerful in both the physical and emotional sense of the word, Curry commands every scene, even if he occasionally chews up the scenery around him.

In smaller roles, Gabrielle Anwar and Hugh O'Connor are quite convincing as the young, frightened monarchs trying to overcome their timidity. Rebecca De Mornay looks regal and strong as the villainess Milady De Winter, but sometimes sounds too inner city for a noble moving inside court circles. A rewriting of the story, giving De Winter a background that explains away her wickedness, weakens De Mornay's role.

Engaging and fun, though hardly memorable, this film is also a bit of a puzzle. Lester regrouped his original cast in 1989 to film "The Return of the Musketeers," based on another Dumas novel which gathers the world weary soldiers for one final romp 20 years later. The movie was only recently dumped onto video, without ever having been released theatrically. In fact, a better film than this remake, though the action scenes can't compare to the feats of these young and agile actors.

The current "The Three Musketeers" is diverting, but check out the trilogy of Musketeer movies directed by Lester. All will be worth watching long after this film has been relegated to yet another pleasurable, but merely adequate, remake.

Carlito's Way reunites Al Pacino and director Brian De Palma ("Scarface") for another foray into the bleak world of a doomed gangster. Set in New York in 1975, Pacino is a Latino ex-con trying to escape a lifestyle that should have killed him years earlier. Sean Penn, a coked out lawyer with delusions of toughness, lures Pacino from his plans. Too long, but beautifully orchestrated by De Palma, it captures the gritty atmosphere of the drug and club scenes of the mid-seventies. But it's difficult to accept Pacino as a character who would deny his instincts, even for integrity. Rated R. ***

Flesh and Bone is a West Texas tragedy about two damaged people who hope to find solace with one another. Dennis Quaid is the emotionally crippled son of a con artist and criminal James Caan. Meg Ryan, a lost soul fueled by optimism, recognizes the kindness behind Quaid's remote exterior. You have to accept a certain amount of coincidence for the plot to work, but the characters are fleshed out with such emotional intensity that the story takes a back seat to performances by Ryan and Quaid. Rated R. *** 1/2

Cool Runnings is a bouncy flick based on the first Jamaican Olympic bobsled team. Not quite as "Rocky"-esque as you'd imagine, this is fun and inspiring, in an offbeat way. John Candy strays from his usual buffoonish roles as an embittered coach trying for one last shot at glory by helping four athletic misfits. Nothing new, though the ending has more dignity than expected. Rated PG. ** 1/2

Robocop 3 is the tired third entry in a series that began as a powerful action flick with a sense of humor. Big business is still the enemy, as evil developers try to rebuild Old Detroit on the still warm bodies of the people living there. Robocop, now played by Robert John Burke in place of Peter Weller, defies his programming to aid the rebels. Unfortunately, this dull action flick runs out of steam shortly after it begins. We've seen it all before, and it's done too poorly here to watch again. Rated PG-13. * 1/2

Fatal Instinct is a tongue-in-cheek look at smoldering thrillers and film noir dramas. Armand Assante stars as a sexy detective/lawyer and vivacious Sean Young is the femme fatale who really doesn't seem to need help. Director Carl Reiner tends to beat a joke to death, but this comedy is more clever, and funnier, than most parodies. Rated PG-13. ** 1/2

The Nightmare Before Christmas offers audiences a uniquely creative twist on sickly sweet holiday classics as seen through the eyes of producer Tim Burton, who created the characters and the story. His vision is imaginative and unusual and deserves to be seen, but lacks the content to be a feature film. At 65 minutes, it is a little more than a mini-movie. Rated PG. ***

The Joy Luck Club is a first-rate adaptation of Amy Tan's novel. The story of four Chinese women and their relationships with their immigrant mothers is tough and honest and amazingly perceptive. Maternal relationships are at the film's core, but it also explores the struggles of adjusting to a new country while your children leave behind old ways. The result is a richly textured emotional landscape that will stay with you long after the film has ended. Rated R. ****

Age of Innocence is a magnificently rich film, both esthetically and emotionally. Martin Scorsese directed this adaptation of Edith Wharton's novel about the killer elite of New York society around the turn of the century. Daniel Day Lewis is the husband who finds his young wife, Winona Ryder, to be a pale imitation of a woman after meeting her cousin, played with infinite depth by Michelle Pfeiffer. This is a cinematic delight in every possible sense. Rated PG. ****

Demolition Man is a futuristic sci-fi action flick told with so much campy humor you can turn a blind eye to the weak plot. Sylvester Stallone is a renegade cop taken out of a cryogenic freezer to capture escaped psychopath Wesley Snipes. There is little logic here, but special effects and tongue-in-cheek chuckles make it worth watching. Rated R. ***

Malice stars Nicole Kidman, as the wife of average professor Bill Pullman, who finds her life falling apart when they take in sexy boarder Alec Baldwin, a top-notch surgeon with a housing problem. All flash and sexy titillation, this thriller will reel you in if you don't think about it too much. Rated R. ***

A Bronx Tale is a 1960's period piece in which a young boy is torn between the boring decency of his bus driver father (Robert DeNiro) and the flashy attraction of the local mafia chieftan (Chazz Palminteri). This is a first rate effort from director De Niro, who threads this detailed coming-of-age story through a neighborhood rich with characters and rife with atmosphere. Rated R. ****

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

Hold your heads up high, those of you who, like me, are lazy. Hard working people (it seems to me) never invented anything. They just plugged along following the same daily routines putting their shoulders to the wheels and noses to the grindstones.

It's the lazy person who says, "Hey! There must be an easier way!" Those are the kind of people who gave us the washing machine, central heating, the refrigerator, the self starter in cards and a thousand other labor-saving inventions. Kathy, reading this, said, "The crank in our car is still there - it's the Woodchipper!"

A wedding ring should function like a tourniquet. It should stop the circulation. The three rings of marriage are the engagement ring, the wedding ring and the suffering.

Flashlights are gadgets that hold dead batteries... If ever a person personified the product he was selling, it sure was Jimmy Geary. You see folks, Jimmy was the star salesman for the Sunshine Biscuit Co. His son, Pottsie of Lynnfield, is also a happy-go-lucky young man who looks like he ate all of his father's biscuit samples.

One of the best Chocolate Chips bakers in the area is Marsala O'Hara Dion... When I first met Kathy, I said to her, "You look like the cat's meow." She looked at me and, after she stopped laughing, she exclaimed, "And, you look like something the cat dragged in!"

A nudist takes a "Bare" aspirin for a headache and my readers take them too after reading this column... At my birthday party last month, Aunt Nora lead the singing (off key, of course). "Happy Birthday to you. You belong in a zoo. You look like a monkey and you write like one too."

Years ago, one of my duties as a church usher was to make up any person who had fallen asleep during the long sermon. Unfortunately one day, a man died right in the pew. The medics were called and they hurried in the church with a stretcher. When they were carrying the sixth person out, the head medic said to the sexton, "We finally have the right one!" and the sermon droned on.

PERSONALITY WINNERS: Gordon Pepper, Joseph White, Andy Moog, Kerrin and K.C. Molloy and Ginty the Mailman, all of LYNNFIELD; Jennifer Marcianti, Lisa McAuliffe, Mical O'Brien, Michael Bornstein and Gillian Casey, all of NORTH READING; Bill Barrat, Athletic Director Barry Fitzpatrick, Rep. James DiPaola, Michele Altongy and Coach Al Luongo, all of MALDEN; Christine Alfano, Keith Baldi, Carrie Bacheller, Matthew Danciewicz and Elizabeth Dooher, all of MELROSE; Mark and Caroline Passero, Fr. Dennis Nason, Billy Carr, Kerry Kearns and Keidi Cushing, all of MEDFORD; Kathleen Kiernan, Domenic LaCava, Rebecca Sutherland, Gregg Moore and Frederick VanMaggness, all of READING; Kimberly L. Black, Dennis G. Dooley, George and Mary Poole, Anna Marie Gatta and Nancy A. all of WAKEFIELD; Dick and June Fopiano, Jennifer Liu, Lisa Ferragamo, Coach Sharon Chapman and Stacey Meagher, all of STONEHAM.

Also, Laurie Robinson, Kelly Sullivan, Leanne Bishop, Jennifer DeNinno and Lori Cormier, all of WILMINGTON; Happy Wedding Anniversary to the following: John and Carol Honan (21st), Nicolas and Ann Romano (31st), Al and Carol Buckman (34th), Angelo and Eleanor Ingaharro (43rd) and Clesson and Doris Downs (43rd), all of TEWKSBURY.

The Via Appia, "The Appian Way," was begun in 312 BC by Emperor Appius Claudius. It is 350 miles long from Rome to Brindisi. Just like in modern times, the money allocated for the project was exhausted when the road was half built.

The emperor demanded an explanation. A meeting, of all involved in the planning and construction was held. They were seated in a large assembly hall with the emperor at the head of the long table.

The lawyer asked for a large ice cube. He gave it to the emperor and he was told to pass it to the minister of finance who passed it to the next person and so on. The heat of each person's hand melted a little of the ice cube, which melted away when it reached half way around the table.

"That sir," the minister of finance said, "Is what happened to the original sum of money." Isn't it strange, folks, how the same thing happens today on many private and government projects?

In the early 1940s my cousin Peggy of Reading, entered a cloistered order of nuns whose strict rules permitted only two spoken words every ten years. Peggy's first words were "Cell cold." (A room is called a cell.) After ten more years she said, "Food bad." The Mother Superior entered them in the log as she did with the other complaints and shunted them aside.

As the years rolled by Peggy's anger rose to a tortuous crescendo but she waited patiently for ten more long years and the opportunity to say ten more words. When that day came she stood up straight and shouted, "I quit!" "Good," the Mother Superior said, "you've been a 'chronic' complainer anyway!"

When Mario DiMino of Stoneham studied biology at Rome's famous "Whatsa matta U," the professor told the students that humans are made up of 95 percent water. While on recess that day, a beautiful young Sophia Loren type woman walked across the campus green. Mario DiMino exclaimed, "Mamma Mia! Look what she did with her 5 percent!"

A person must be at least 35 years old to be elected president of the United States. We may never have a woman president because there are not many women who will admit being 35 years old.

My cousin Angelo Quaganti is the life of the parties he attends. He is noted for his "picturesque speech and phrases." He would be the wrong person to invite to a lady's afternoon tea. But, he would be right at home at a bricklayer's convention or a longshoremen's labor meeting. I hope someone edits his speech that he is preparing as the keynote speaker at the locksmith's graduation exercises at Yale Lock Co. School.

Charlie Mullen from Woburn told me that General Custer's last words were "Remember men, take no prisoners!" He died wearing an arrow shirt.

Swedish Christmas Fair celebration December 4th

The Swedish Christmas Fair has become a tradition of its own in Boston. The eighth annual fair takes place on Saturday, December 4th, at the Quincy Market Building, Great Hall, off the Upper Rotunda. The public is invited to attend and the fair typically attracts thousands of visitors.

The fair features many booths offering customary Scandinavian foods, crafts, Christmas decorations and gift items. The "Kaffestuga" will serve delicious Swedish coffee, open-faced sandwiches, cakes and breads, and, of course, hot "Glögg," fabled to cure colds and winter chills.

Women in national costumes will demonstrate lacemaking, weaving, rosemaling and other almost forgotten crafts. General information about Sweden and Scandinavia as a travel destination will be available. A raffle will be held for two roundtrip tickets to Scandinavia on SAS Scandinavian Airlines.

In addition to the on-going activities at the fair, the traditional Lucia pageant will appear several times during the fair. Unique to Sweden, Santa Lucia and her attendants retell, with songs and poetry, the beautiful legend, as they bring light, cheer and hope into the world during the darkest days of December. Swedish students at Berklee College of Music will participate in the pageant.

The Swedish Christmas Fair, the largest Swedish annual event in New England, is organized by the Swedish Women's Educational Association (SWEA), a non-profit organization of about 3,000 Swedish women living outside of Sweden. The SWEA-Boston Chapter, with 115 members, works to raise funds for scholarships and local charities.

Admission is $1, children free.

Turkey Day for MDA Nov. 24th

"Don't be a Turkey this Thanksgiving. Instead, join 'Turkey Day for MDA'," says Howard York, president of the Muscular Dystrophy Association's North Eastern Chapter. MDA has designated Wednesday, November 24th as the day for its first "Turkey Day for MDA" event.

For a suggested $5 donation, office workers, retail and grocery employees, bank tellers - employees of all participating companies - can "dress" casual for work and show their support for "Jerry's Kids."

Modeled after "Cool & Casual" days sponsored by MDA chapters across the country, it's hoped that "Turkey Day for MDA" will raise awareness of the 40 neuromuscular diseases in MDA's program and help generate funds to continue the fight against disorders, York said.

For a registration packet that includes a button for each participant, sign-up posters and "Turkey Day" guidelines, interested companies should contact Debbie Carnes in MDA's Danvers office, (508) 777-0333.

"StressTammers" for holidays

Anyone finding holidays stressful can learn to "keep cooler under pressure" with StressTammers.

At the next Adult Wellness Service offered by the Melrose-area Visiting Nurse Service on Thursday, Nov. 18, on a one-to-one basis, MVNS registered nurse Jean DeThomas will help people identify what triggers their stress response, then suggest ways to tame their distress.

The Adult Wellness Service will be held on Nov. 18 rather than the regular second Thursday, Nov. 11, in observance of Veterans' Day.

AWS "wellness checkups" begin at 1:30 p.m., at the First Baptist Church in Melrose; they are offered by MVNS in conjunction with the Melrose Council on Aging. Call (617) 662-6886 (Council on Aging, Senior Drop-In Center) for a reservation for a "wellness checkup." If unable to keep a reservation, please call (617) 662-6886 or 665-4800 (MVNS office) to cancel.

The MVNS Adult Wellness Service provides an overall health review, including blood pressure reading, and the opportunity to ask health-related questions of MVNS registered nurses - for $1.

The Melrose-area Visiting Nurse Service also makes "house calls" to residents of Melrose and surrounding communities who need health care at home. Its staff of registered nurses, physical, occupational and speech therapists, certified home health aides, social workers and a nutritionist continue to provide home care, as the agency has for almost 70 years.

Anyone with questions about StressTammers, the Adult Wellness Service or home care for themselves or a relative, friend or neighbor, can call the Melrose-area Visiting Nurse Service at (617) 665-4800.
